Learning Resources (Library)

1. I used to be a student at De Anza back in 2009. I spent 5 years at the College, navigating through courses and finding what major I wanted to transfer with. I'm a product of this College and I attribute my subsequent academic success to this College. I used to work in public institutions (City of San Jose, Town of Los Gatos) and worked at West Valley College, which developed a varied perspective. I served on committees during my time at West Valley College.
2. Diversity matters because having a homogenized view of a topic or approach to a project does not serve the diverse community this College educates. A varied set of professional experiences & training, along with a variety of personal backgrounds & identities, allows for a more holistic approach to all subjects, including the realignment of De Anza's General Education areas.
